

Pap Smears/Abnormal Pap Smears

If you are someone who has never had an abnormal pap smear before, getting the call that you need additional testing, beyond your routine pap smear, can be scary. Pap smears are completed to assess for abnormal changes on or inside the cervix that could potentially lead to cancer. Abnormal pap smears can range from mild to severe. Your doctor will recommend additional monitoring or procedures based on your results.

Click on the links below to find out more.

Labcorp - <https://patient.labcorp.com/>